How to Pre-Plan Cemetery Arrangements NOW to Avoid the 7 Most Common Mistakes People Make When They Wait Until They Have To.

In life is death and death is a part of life. The Torah has a lot to say about pre-planning and “putting one’s house in order”.

“He has peace who looks to the welfare of his family
when he is with them and when he is away.”
-- The Talmud

Procrastination is the number #1 problem when the idea of pre-planning comes up. Most folks tell me they’ve thought about it a lot, but something keeps them from acting on those thoughts ... that something is ... Procrastination. Usually when there’s a death in the family, a near-miss-accident or even while dealing with a health issue the thought of pre-planning comes to our mind.

There are many things in life we take responsibility for: auto insurance, home-owners insurance, life insurance, wills, trusts, and personal representatives for long-term care and power-of-attorney...when you think about it we insure for possibilities...but what about planning for the inevitable?

Following are the 7 most common mistakes people make by not pre-planning and how to avoid those mistakes.

MISTAKE #1

PROCRASTINATING UNTIL IT'S TOO LATE

“Do make your funeral arrangements while you are of healthy mind & body.”

-- C. Sue Miles, Ph. D.

“At that time,
I regretted that we had not
made pre-arrangements
for my grandmother...
We just never got around to it.”

It's easier to procrastinate than take ACTION now. We prepare for many things in life. Through insurance we prepare for the accident we hope will never happen...and the odds are it won't happen.

We get “wills” and “trusts” and “power-of-attorneys” and seek advice from professionals all the time for taxes and financial planning. Procrastination is like being in “denial”.

“Announce this in Egypt, and proclaim it in Migdol; proclaim it also in Noph and Tahpanhes: ‘Take your positions and get ready, for the sword devours those around you.’” -- Jeremiah 46:14

“Finish your outdoor work and get your fields ready; after that, build your house.” -- Proverbs 24:27

“That is why we said, ‘Let us get ready and build an altar – but not for burnt offerings or sacrifices’.” – 1 Samuel 6:7
